Personal Statement

I believe money is our most valuable partner in creating and living our best life, and that is why I became a Financial Recovery Counselor. It is the most important work I have felt called to do.

As a Life Transformation Coach for the last 15 years, I have worked with hundreds of individuals in private sessions, classes, and workshops to educate and empower them to develop mindfulness, master their mindset, and manifest their dreams.

In this work with others, I discovered that most of my clients struggled with money, no matter how successful or intelligent they were. Whether they lacked financial knowledge and experience, were unaware of their beliefs, attitudes, and habits, or believed that some day they would be ok if they worked hard enough, married well, or inherited money, most felt powerless when it came to money.

My current practice blends my training and experience in holistic healing, yoga, and spiritual psychology with the proven process of Financial Recovery to provide my clients with valuable tools to heal their relationship with money and create a more meaningful life.

My own personal journey is living proof that when you prioritize your needs, and focus your resources - your time, energy, and money - on the things that matter most to you, you can revolutionize your life!

I look forward to sharing this life-changing process with you, Dana
