Personal Statement

David Krueger, M.D. is an Executive Mentor Coach, who helps professionals and executives create success strategies to write the next chapter of their life or business stories.

My signature approach is incorporated in Emotional Economics®: The study of the interactions of mind and brain impacting money behavior and financial decisions. I integrate psychology, behavioral economics, and neuroeconomics with strategic coaching to help clients understand the emotionally charged issues of their money stories. As clients gain understanding and mastery of the mind matters and brain business that impact their money behavior and financial decisions, their effectiveness and satisfaction enhances.
